CAMP LEE PRESENTS SOME BUSY SCENES

Officers Arriving Daily and Being Registered and Assigned to Quarters.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
PETERSBURG, VA., August 28.—Very busy scenes have been witnessed at Camp Lee during the past two or three days in receiving, registering and assigning to their quarters and command the 2,000 officers arriving and destined for training the regiments of the new national army which will begin to arrive next week. There is perfect system in all this work. While the quarters are not luxurious, they are comfortable, and good meals are furnished.

Among the conveniences installed at the camp are a post-office in charge of experienced clerks, a telephone exchange, two telegraph offices and an express office. It will not be long now before everything will be moving smoothly in the new military city.

TOBACCO TRADE FALLS IN LINE WITH MOVEMENT

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
DANVILLE, VA., August 28.—The Danville tobacco trade fell in line today with the movement on foot to secure contributions to the Red Cross from the tobacco planters by asking them to donate a pile of tobacco, the purchase price of which shall be donated to the organization. The trade unanimously endorsed the proposition and a committee with power to act was appointed to make all necessary arrangements and to bring the matter to the farmers' attention.

RICHMOND NOT FAVORED FOR BANKHEAD HIGHWAY

DANVILLE, VA., August 28.—R. L. Dibble, one of the delegates who attended the Lynchburg Bankhead Highway meeting, stated today that the published report that the meeting endorsed the sand hill section as that over which the highway shall be routed was in error. He stated that the sense of the meeting was that the road should come through Lynchburg, Danville and Greensboro, in the Piedmont section and not via Richmond, Petersburg and Durham, which is known as the sand hill section.

MRS. VAUGHN TO TEACH NEW WAYS OF ECONOMY

Will Demonstrate How to Serve an Entire Meal Without Use of Eggs.

MAKES MEATLESS DISHES

A Southern woman has been in New York for one month studying the methods employed there for the conservation of food after a six weeks' teaching course in North Carolina. Her name is Kate Brew Vaughn, of Nashville, Tenn. If there is one woman better fitted than another to teach Southern women regarding cookery and housekeeping, Mrs. Vaughn is that one. The Times-Dispatch has secured one of her lectures and practical demonstrations to be held at the Masonic Temple, and this course of lectures and demonstrations is intended to help the Southern woman to use intelligently the information that is being sent out by the government in Washington and through magazines and newspapers.

Conditions in the South are essentially different from those in the East and North, and the same methods are not applicable here nor productive of good results. Corn meal has been used in the South in so many ways and for so long that Southern housekeepers know many ways of preparing it unknown to the New England housewife. Right along this line much of the agitation of food given in the magazines is applicable only in the North and East. Mrs. Vaughn is going to take many of these same ideas and Southernize them, as it were, for Richmond women. Instead of teaching the preparation of planked steak and beautiful, but expensive dishes, Mrs. Vaughn will teach the preparation of meatless dishes and the use of dishes that do not deprive the soldiers of food. War-time bread need not necessarily be dry and tasteless because one uses no white flour; ginger bread may be made almost as good as the expensive cake, and whole meals may be prepared without the use of eggs, butter or rich milk. The school opens next Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Masonic Temple.

YESTERDAY'S ENLISTMENTS
One More Colored Applicant Appears for Army Medical Department—Navy Secures Two.

One more colored applicant put in his appearance yesterday at the local army recruiting station for the medical department. He was readily accepted and sent away to Fort Thomas last night. On the whole yesterday's work was very satisfactory to the officials, yet many more men are still wanted.

Following is the list for yesterday: Leo W. Wells, Abbeville, S. C., in Troop D, First Virginia Cavalry; Shirley F. Cormany, of Roanoke, in Ninth Company, Coast Artillery Corps; Emmett C. Hartley, 1114 North Twenty-second Street, in Headquarters Company, First Virginia Field Artillery; William C. Enacore, of Richmond, in Company A, First Virginia Infantry; James B. Machie, 511 North Twelfth Street, in aviation section signal reserve corps; and Tom Carter, colored, of Louisa, in the medical department.

The navy succeeded in securing two apprentice seamen, both being sent to Norfolk this morning. They are: Hugh Chapin Marshall, of Stuart, and Elton Ross Marshall, of Amelia Courthouse.

There was little activity at the marine corps recruiting station yesterday, as only a limited number of applicants were received. Thomas R. Cushing, of Winston-Salem, N. C., was the only recruit.

Resinol Soap should usually be used with Resinol Ointment to prepare the skin to receive the Resinol medication. Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment are sold by all druggists. Resinol Soap helps to clear poor complexion.

"Serve the Public"

Locke has written a war novel about the coddled Englishman!

Whenever William J. Locke writes a new novel it is an event. When he writes a war novel it is like a view of a nation at grips, glimpsed in the flare of shell fire. And when he writes a war novel about the coddled type of Englishman whose blood is the proud essence of all that is dignified in British life—well, it is "The Rough Road" and it starts in the September GOOD HOUSEKEEPING.

Imagine a young man whose mother "brought him up like a toy Pom until he was twenty-one—and then she died." Imagine a young man raised in the serene calm of an isolated cathedral town, a young man who couldn't bear the thought of missing his weekly manicure. Imagine that young man in a first line trench! And then imagine what Locke, with all his whimsical satire, with all his brilliant painting of word-portraits, with all his grasp of vital situations, has done with a start like that!

Get the September GOOD HOUSEKEEPING so that you can read this novel from the very start. Get it for John Galsworthy's powerful short story, "The Juryman," and for the other splendid fiction by Eleanor Hallowell Abbott, Sinclair Lewis, and Wallace Irwin.

And get it, too, because there is an entirely different side of GOOD HOUSEKEEPING—a helpful, useful, side, as distinctive as its fiction—a side expressed in such articles as "The Y. M. C. A. and the War Department" by Secretary of War Baker, "Homes from Home," by Ethel Watts Mumford, "Women and the Liberty Loan" by Mrs. McAdoo, "Tell Them to Knit" by Gertrude S. Matthews, and "Something for Every One to Do" by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley. Get it because, with all its charm and entertainment, this magazine most clearly and comprehensively pictures the part that the women of this country must play if we are going to win this war.
